I've always liked the first arc of Wings of Fire, but fun fact: I didn't start on the first book. My brother randomly bought the sixth book: Moon Rising. So one day I decided to do it for my reading log, and I instantly loved the series through that one book. I figured out that Moon Rising was the sixth book, and I bought the first five, and eventually the entire series.

First book. I liked 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 8, 9, and 11.
I disliked book 10 and 6 because Moon is my worst favorite character. She feels to perfect to me, and she affects all of the characters around her.
For example, Turtle used to be scared of his powers, which made him different. Now he thinks that its okay if he does it rarely, and he has very few worries about it. Along with Quibli which feels a bit different, too. Im not sure what to say for him, but he's like a dull knife. He cut through, but he gets softer, and softer.. Anyways, I hope there is a problem with Moon on the way to save " The Lost Continent " because so far since Book 6 she seems like the 2nd most main character.

Anyways, they are a great series!

The Dragonet Prophecy got me into to the series, but it was The Hidden Kingdom that got me hooked, but most of all the book that kept me reading Wings of fire was The Brightest Night. It is the reason I continue to read the book series today.

This is going to sound oh so very wrong but -

Spirit Animals Book One. (Explanation below)

So, I read Spirit Animals Book One and decided to play the game on my computer. I was chatting on the chat when I saw in the Community section a roleplay thread, "Plane Walkers" on this board. (As some of you know, it's now dead) I read the first post and went, OH MY GOSH I HAVE TO JOIN THIS. OH WAIT I HAVE TO READ THE BOOKS FIRST. So I asked my friend at school (long story short: we were in lower school, WoF books were in Middle School library, so our kind librarian was getting the books for her) if I could have book one. She said yes. And TA-DA!
